Lending for community-led housing

We see social housing provision, an increase in affordable homes and the development of new vibrant housing communities as key parts of a more sustainable housing mix. We want a wide range of people to have the opportunity to buy, rent or share high-quality, energy efficient housing in their local area, whether urban or rural.

Who do we support?

We specialise in mortgages for a range of tenures and types of occupation. We also support the renovation of poor quality, derelict and empty properties and we encourage the construction of energy efficient new homes. Our mortgages for community-led housing are here to support:

- New and established housing co-operatives
- Housing associations
- Community Land Trusts
- Cohousing and members of cohousing groups
- Community self-builders

What do we support?

We'll consider lending on a wide range of properties, including those that would often be turned down by other lenders, for example:

- Rescuing a derelict building
- Converting a disused building into a home
- Buying back-to-back houses
- Ecological new builds

We take a balanced view of the social and ecological merits of each case when considering support for community-led housing proposals. We do not necessarily require your property to meet high ecological standards to lend, although naturally we encourage improvement, especially where there are evident low-cost opportunities to better the energy rating of your property.

If you are intending to build or undertake renovation or conversion work as part of your plans, we will expect the measures proposed to meet our ecological criteria via the use of energy efficient measures and sustainable materials.

Whilst there are no fixed or rigid definitions of what constitutes an eco home, we do require an appreciable standard of energy efficiency for all the new build projects we support. New homes must be built to a minimum Energy Performance Certificate level B (SAP 88+) rating for us to consider lending.

Housing co-operatives are expected to have a minimum of four independent resident members to qualify for an Ecology mortgage. Please note that a family unit will be considered as one such independent member. We require 50% of adult resident members to be in paid employment or be able to evidence a regular income.

We will not lend to provide "bridging" support where repayment of part or all of the borrowing requested is dependent on the sale of other property owned by the co-operative or its members.

We don't lend on large scale buy-to-let projects to private landlords or on holiday homes, which inflate housing prices and take residential property out of the reach of local people and communities.

Community-led housing

Key features

- ✓ We offer a straightforward, individual approach. We consider each application individually and where appropriate, a site visit may be arranged with you to discuss your project.
- ✓ Mortgages are available on a capital and interest repayment basis, with interest-only periods available to support new developments, subject to eligibility.
- ✓ Mortgage terms are available from 1 year up to 35 years, subject to eligibility.
- ✓ You can borrow up to 80% of the property's value, subject to eligibility. For Housing Associations (including Community Land Trusts) up to 80%. For Housing co-operatives and Cohousing schemes up to 75%.
- ✓ Stage release payments are available as the value of property is increased through building or renovation work, subject to our maximum loan-to-value at any given time.

Community-led housing mortgage products for co-operatives, associations, limited companies and other organisations are not regulated by the Financial Conduct Authority.

For details of our current terms for community-led housing please refer to our Current commercial rates and charges leaflet.

Useful contacts
